Basic Concepts in Judaism and Zionism /Beit Sasson Community

1. "Gemilut Chasadim"

This term refers to all the commandments that require a person to do good deeds for others and to take their needs into consideration. The Bible often emphasizes the importance of various commandments between a person and their friends (for example: the Torah commands the proper treatment of the convert, orphan, and widow thirty-six times), and the Sages (Chazal) also strongly emphasized the importance of "Gemilut Chasadim." In the Mishnah, it is stated: "The world stands on three things: on the Torah, on the service [of God], and on Gemilut Chasadim" (Pirkei Avot).

Gemilut Chasadim can be practiced in two ways:

- A. Charity: through giving money, either as a gift or as an interest-free loan.
- B. Spiritual-emotional assistance to others, not involving money (for example: hospitality, visiting the sick, escorting the dead, and comforting mourners).

2. "The Hebrew Calendar"

The Hebrew calendar counts the days and years from the creation of the world. The Jewish holidays and festivals are determined according to the Hebrew calendar, so the Jewish people in all the Diaspora celebrate the holidays at the same time. The months of the year are: Tishrei, (Mar)Cheshvan, Kislev, Tevet, Shevat, Adar, Nisan, Iyar, Sivan, Tamuz, Av, and Elul. Every two to three years, the year is "leap" or "intercalated," meaning an additional month—Adar I—is added to align the lunar-based Hebrew calendar with the solar-based Gregorian calendar. This ensures that Passover always falls in the spring and Sukkot in the fall. This type of year is called a "leap year." Some months have 29 days, and others have 30 days. The last day of months with 30 days, and the first day of each month, are called "Rosh Chodesh." The first two days of Tishrei are known as "Rosh Hashanah."

3. "Eliezer Ben-Yehuda" (1858-1922)

Eliezer Ben-Yehuda, known as the "reviver of the Hebrew language," believed that the revival of the Hebrew nation could only take place in the Land of Israel, and the revival of the nation would occur alongside the revival of the Hebrew language. After centuries in which Hebrew was used only for religious studies and prayers, Ben-Yehuda decided to speak only Hebrew in his home in Jerusalem, thus creating "the first Hebrew home." His great project was the Historical Hebrew Dictionary, which includes Hebrew words from all periods and layers of the Hebrew language. Thanks to his efforts, he is known as the "reviver of the Hebrew language.

If the seventeenth of Marḥeshvan arrived and rain has not fallen, individuals, but not the entire community, begin to fast three fasts for rain. How are these fasts conducted? As the fast begins in the morning, one may eat and drink after dark, and one is permitted during the days of the fasts themselves to engage in the performance of work, in bathing, in smearing oil on one's body, in wearing shoes, and in conjugal relations

They are permitted to eat and drink all the night of the fast until the crack of dawn all the while that they are not sleeping. But after one has had one's fixed period of sleep, it is forbidden to each or drink if one didn't make a condition [to do so] at first prior to going to sleep. And there are those who say that eating requires a condition made. Drinking does not require a condition made, for there is no fixed period for drinking and that makes sense
